

Promotion of Edward Kunz

Washington, D.C: The Louis D. Brandeis Center for Human Rights Under Law (LDB) is proud to announce the promotion of Edward Kunz to the position of Senior Communications and Development intern. Edward Kunz joined LDB in February of this year, and has completed phenomenal work for the Center, including writing blog posts, drafting press releases, assisting with research projects, and compiling LDB's monthly e-publication, the Brandeis Brief, among other things. In March, Edward helped organize the Louis D. Brandeis Center's successful Fourth Annual Law Student Leadership Conference, which brought together fantastic speakers and LDB Law Student Leaders from all across the country.

"We are honored to have Edward as a part of our team," says LDB President and General Counsel Kenneth L. Marcus. "His talent and passion has led to great contributions to our work against campus anti-Semitism."

Edward Kunz is currently working on an MA in history from the University of North Carolina. On his work for LDB, Edward stated that, "I chose originally to work with LDB due to both my Jewish background as well as my interest in free speech. The Brandeis Center fights for the rights I believe in, and any ability to help an organization whose stated objective falls so closely to my own goals is an opportunity I cannot pass up."

Edward's promotion marks the continued growth of the Brandeis Center.
